HOW PEARL HARBOR ITEM WAS STRUCK FROM BILL

Technical Attack on Proposed Increased Was Raised---Hawaii's Friends Came to Rescue of the Works.

The fact that congress struck out of the naval appropriation bill all items dealing with the completion of the dry docks at Brooklyn, Puget Sound and Pearl Harbor, when that bill was being considered on April 5, was due, as The Advertiser of the time suggested, to the desire on the part of the friends of the navy to materially enlarge those works from the original plans. As has been noted, the items have since been included in a special bill.

Taking part in the debate on the side of the ones desirous of seeing the completed docks capable of handling the newer and larger battleships were Padgett, Bates, Humphrey, Dawson and Fitzgerald, all of whom have visited the Islands as members of one or the other of the two congressional parties. All spoke of Pearl Harbor from personal knowledge of their subject. The objector was Representative Stafford of Wisconsin, who in behalf of Representative James R. Mann, of Illinois, and the other self-constituted "watch dogs of the Treasury," invoked a rule which prevented any authorization for the enlargement of the Brooklyn dock to accommodate the battleships Wyoming and Arkansas, which will be completed in 1912.

Mr. Stafford stubbornly insisted on his point of order in the face of testimony from nearly every member of the naval committee that unless the secretary of the navy was authorized to increase the limit of cost of these docks and enlarge them the United States would not have a dock anywhere large enough to accommodate the two great battleships now under construction, to say nothing of the 26,000-ton monsters to be authorized at this session. He declared that an increase in the limit of cost, heretofore fixed by congress, was a change in existing law.

Knowing that the chair would be bound to decide Mr. Stafford's way under their rules, members of the committee tried to convince him that the secretary and naval experts knew more about naval matters than he did. When their efforts failed Mr. Fitzgerald moved that the appropriation of $600,000 for continuing the work on the New York dock according to the present plans be stricken from the bill.

Strike Out Original Items.

"If we are going to follow an ashame policy," said the New York member, with considerable heat, "we might as well do nothing at all. What is the use of spending money to complete a dock that will be of no use and will eventually have to be torn down and rebuilt?"

There wasn't a vote in the negative when the motion was put, not even from Mr. Stafford.

In like manner the Wisconsin member went after the provisions to increase the cost of the Puget Sound dock to $2,300,000 and of the Pearl Harbor dock to $2,700,000. Representative William E. Humphrey, of Washington, moved to strike out the appropriation of $600,000 to continue the work at Pearl Harbor. Both motions carried by the same overwhelming vote.

The members of the naval committee left the Capital in a great hull after the house adjourned. They accused Speaker Cannon and the regular Republican leaders of putting Mr. Stafford up to the snags.

THE EX-QUEEN CONFIRMS TRUST

Liliuokalani Decides After All to Support the Deed She Attacked.

Ex-Queen Liliuokalani has once more exercised the feminine as well as royal prerogative of changing her mind and has decided to give up her right to revoke the trust deed executed by her on December 2, 1899. Yesterday afternoon there was filed at the Bureau of Conveyances a document in which the Queen once more establishes the trust on the same terms as before. It is, in other words, a reversion of the revocation.

What reason caused the Queen to take this new step does not appear, but it is possible that she or her attorneys had concluded that it would be impossible legally to break the trust as the trustees had shamed their reputation by dragging the matter through the courts. On the Queen's only leave granted, that she'd the worst thing in 20 years, when she executed the deed, she was advised to get the services of W. H. Smith, C. S. Chace and Curtis P. Jackson.

The argument part of the document filed yesterday goes as follows:

"We therefore, Leithead & Woodward, in every location of the premises, including glass, mirrors, alcoves, ready to set up our business into the care of Leithead & Woodward, C. S. Chace and William O. Smith, as trustees, under and subject to trust set December 2, 1899, and recorded in the County Land Office, whenever desired and referred to below, in such kind of vessel, wheel by the wheel, if such need arise, and are hereby directed to be removed and so held by said trustees, as soon as may be had, hold you all and the trustees in trust as said deed executors."

As for the same consideration, I do and hereby grant assign, transfer and convey unto the said J. A. Gilman, now known as John A. Gilman and J. K. Ann respectively, the right, to be allowed, whether in whole or in part, of using the name of J. A. Gilman, Alvin Gilman and J. K. Ann, shall be and forever hereinafter remain and be used by me in connection with my business, to be used in all manner of ways, as far as the interests of the said J. A. Gilman, Alvin Gilman and J. K. Ann, may be entitled.

It is understood, I do and hereby do, and shall and will, hold you all and the trustees in trust as said deed executors."

It is further agreed, I do and hereby do, and shall and will, hold you all and the trustees in trust as said deed executors."
